Lan Su Chinese Garden has long been a favorite of the camera. With its carefully arranged succession of scenes, unfolding one after another and its harmonious melding of art, architecture and nature, photographers from all over the world have captured its ever-changing appearance.

At the request of many photographers wishing to use their photographs for commercial use and requesting special access to the Garden to capture the shifting light and changing seasons, Lan Su Chinese Garden is pleased to offer an annual Photography Membership. This new $150 membership, designed for professional & amateur photographers, is being “snapped” up as it offers:

- Special early-entry to the Garden at 9am on the first Monday of each month
- Two after-hour admissions to capture twilight & darkness in the Garden
- Full rights to sell photos or use images for commercial endeavors
- Invitations to special Photography Member events, lectures and workshops
